SPRAVATO® for Treatment-Resistant Depression

When traditional antidepressants haven't provided relief, Spravato may be an effective alternative. As the first FDA-approved nasal spray for adults with treatment-resistant depression, Spravato works differently than standard medications by targeting the brain's glutamate system. Clinical studies show it can provide relief within hours to days, offering new hope for those struggling with persistent depression. At Mind Rejuvenation, we provide Spravato treatments in a safe, supervised environment. A referral from your mental health provider is required before beginning treatment.

Ketamine IV Therapy for Mental Wellness

Ketamine IV therapy is a breakthrough treatment for individuals struggling with severe depression, anxiety, PTSD, and chronic pain. Unlike traditional medications, ketamine works rapidly by stimulating neural connections and promoting lasting changes in brain function. Many patients experience significant relief within hours to days after treatment. At Mind Rejuvenation, we administer ketamine infusions in a safe, controlled setting to ensure the best possible outcomes. If you've tried other treatments without success, ketamine therapy may offer the relief you've been searching for.
